State 355
Across South
Hempstead Co.

State Highway 355 across southern Hempstead county is undergoing a transformation, I discovered on a tour last Sunday.

The present 355 pavement running east from State 29 ends just east of the Patmos school, but now the route is crowded with heavy equipment. A new grade is being established apparently with the intention of extending paving for a five-mile stretch east of the present terminus.

The most difficult task has been to elevate the road through the Bodcaw Creek bottoms. Formerly you jogged through the bottoms on a half-flooded gravel road, but the completed dump puts you well above the water. That's speaking of normal conditions—there isn't much water visible in the bottoms in this dry year.

Reconstruction of State 355 means a modern road across southern Hempstead and Nevada counties, from State 29 eventually to Falcon, Nevada county. The present five-mile project carries the road from Patmos school well into Nevada, but still several miles short of Falcon.

Traffic is being maintained during construction.

Dangerous chemicals in bombs

BELFAST (AP) — A 19-year-old member of the Irish Republican Army is dying because the guerrillas are using a chemical for explosives that can be more dangerous for the bombers than the bombed, the British army said today.

The chemical is nitrobenzene, and IRA bomb factories have been stocking it for two months, a spokesman said. When the highly toxic substance is absorbed into the bloodstream, it produces symptoms of cancer, and "unfortunately there is no cure," he added.

The 19-year-old is critically ill in a Belfast hospital after handling the chemical. The spokesman said two others, a youth and a teen-age girl, were killed last week when a nitrobenzene bomb they were carrying in their car exploded prematurely.

The highly volatile compound is used in the manufacture—under strict precautions—of dyes, shoe polish and synthetic fibers. It gets into the system through a scratch, a cut or other break in the skin, but when exploded leaves no poisonous residue, the spokesman said.

The IRA was believed to have turned to nitrobenzene because army raids recently have been cutting off its regular explosives supplies. Some 13,000 pounds of blast substances have been seized in the two weeks since the army moved into the IRA areas of Belfast and Londonderry.

GOVERNOR VACATIONING

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers is in Charleston for a week's vacation.

Archie Schaffer III, an aide to the governor, said Bumpers would vacation until Saturday then resume his schedule with an appearance at the opening of the Babe Ruth World Series in Pine Bluff.

Laird urges party to reject 'weakness' and endorse Nixon's policy

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird today called on the Republican party to "reject policies of planned weakness, of white-flag waving, of begging" and to give full endorsement to President Nixon's foreign strategy.

The Pentagon chief told the GOP National Convention's Platform-Committee the President has maintained the nation's strength while still moving toward meaningful relaxations of world tensions.

Laird did not mention Democratic presidential nominee Sen. George McGovern directly, but he made clear he was attacking the political opposition.

"Our progress could quickly evaporate if we allowed our military strength to wane and if we had leadership that was not firm, calm, realistic and experienced," Laird declared.

"It is especially essential," he continued, "that the nation be led by a president and commander in chief who does not waver under pressure or articulate confusing, teeter-totter views. "President Nixon has demonstrated the ability to devise sound policies and to successfully pursue them under the most strenuous kind of pressure."

Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Monday's top witness at the full Platform Committee session, declared that "never before has the prestige of the United States been greater" and said the President's policies may pave the way for a full generation of world peace.

He took another slap at criticism by McGovern and Shriver of administration Vietnam policies, declaring that the Democratic contenders have an "Alice in Wonderland" view of the war.

The Platform Committee did get to hear from one dissenter, conservative Rep. John Ashbrook of Ohio who, like McCloskey, sought to challenge the President's renomination in the GOP primaries.

Ashbrook charged that 1968 Republican promises to maintain a balanced federal budget and keep mainland China out of the United Nations "have turned to ashes."

The Rules Committee of the national committee is considering two major questions that could affect the 1976 convention: how to broaden representation and how to fix the number of delegates allocated each state.

Leading Republican liberals want a rule adopted that would require state GOP parties to take positive action to assure greater participation.

Conservatives say the proposal is an indirect effort to set quotas.

Phase II must be maintained, GOP writers are told

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — President Nixon's top economic advisers told Republican platform writers today that federal spending must be curbed and Phase 2 economic controls maintained to prevent a resurgence of inflation and higher taxes.

"Price and wage controls need to be continued and improved for the time being," said the President's Council of Economic Advisers. "But we need to look forward to getting rid of them."

"An important reason for great care in adhering to non-inflationary fiscal and monetary policy now is to permit the controls to end without major disruption of the economy."

The council's statement was presented in advance of testimony before the 108-member GOP Platform Committee by the three council members, Chairman Herbert Stein, Ezra Solomon and Marina N. Whitman. The committee's draft platform goes to the Republican National Convention which opens here Monday.

The council's statement supported in effect President Nixon's call to Congress for a $250 billion ceiling on budget outlays for fiscal 1973 and his warning that he will veto programs that he considers to involve excessive spending.

"The key here is the federal budget," the council statement said, "and our effort must be to prevent an explosion of spending which will make inevitable both more inflation and more taxes."

A family affair

David Cummings, his wife Jo, and Keith check equipment and work at daily chores.

Patmos family picked Farm Family for 1972

By REBECCA LAZENBY
Of The Star Staff

The David Cummings family of Patmos has been named Hempstead County Farm Family of the Year for 1972.

Cummings, his wife Jo and son Keith, live on a 340-acre farm in the southern part of the county where they are engaged in chicken and cattle ranching. The Cummings family moved to their Hempstead County farm in 1962. "At that time," Cummings explained, "I started with just a few cows and cleared some of the land myself." His first two chicken houses were built in 1964; an additional house was added in 1970.

The Cummings' operation now produces 200,000 broilers annually in three houses of 15,000 capacity each. Cummings explained that his farm was a family operation. "I've never had any hired help. My wife and son help with the work. Sometimes it is more a matter of me helping them. We all share the chores."

Cummings' cattle herd is largely Hereford and Angus crossbreeds. He has 70 cows, 18 replacement heifers that will calf this winter, 67 calves weaning at 400 pounds, and three registered Angus bulls.

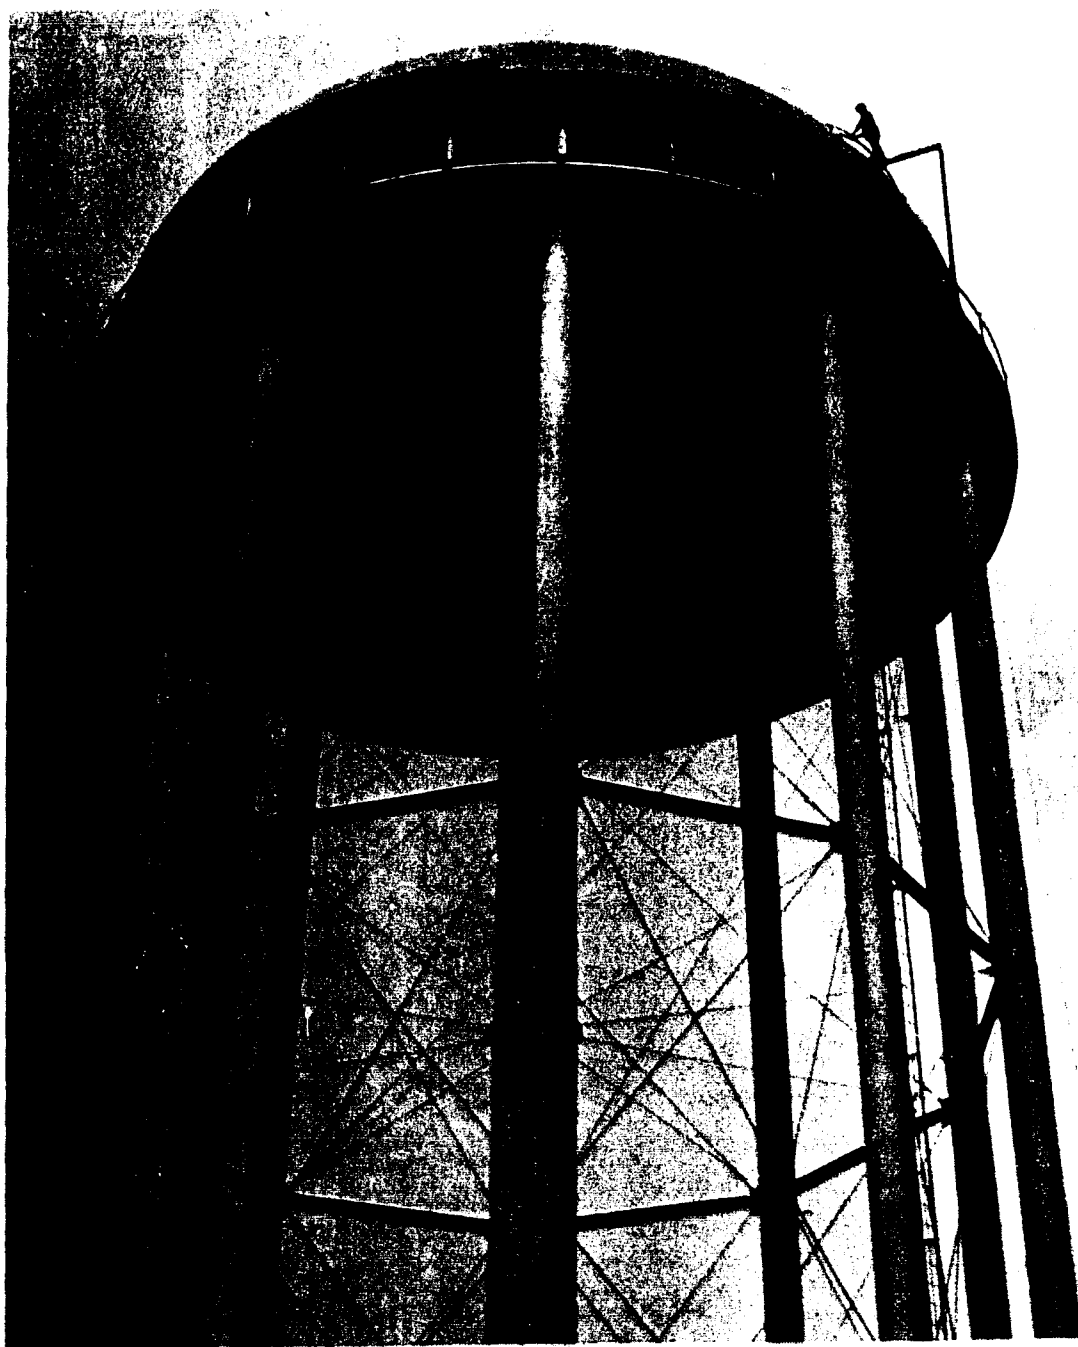

Bermuda grass pastures, red clover, and rye grass provide grazing and hay for the herd. He uses chicken litter from his three houses to fertilize the pastures and uses lime and commercial fertilizer when needed to meet soil test recommendations.

Cummings and his family are members of the Hinton Methodist Church in Patmos where he serves as a member of the Board of Stewards and Sunday School superintendent. He has been a member of the Patmos School Board for six years and is currently serving as board president. His other civic activities include: vice-president, Hempstead County Farmers Association; director, Hempstead County Farm Bureau; and past president of Hempstead County Cattleman's Association.

Mrs. Cummings helps her husband tend the chickens and cattle and still finds time for a hobby—she sews.

Making most of her clothing, she also does some sewing for her family. She also likes to bowl and is a member of a league in Emmet. Jo is a member of the board of directors of the Hempstead County Welfare Service, a member of the Patmos P.T.A. and serves on the advisory council at the Patmos school.

New paint job

Hope's 500,000-gallon water tower on Ninth St. is being repainted this week by the C. R. Smith Construction Company of El Dorado. The tank, constructed in 1960, is 120 feet tall. The cost of cleaning, repairing and painting the tank is $3,600 and it will take 85 gallons of paint and primer to complete the job.

Clark describes POW camp

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark says the American POW camp he saw in North Vietnam has windows in every bedroom with no bars, a movie theater, bridge tournaments, a basketball court and paperback books.

Clark, back from a two-week tour of North Vietnam, said he met with 10 captured U.S. pilots for more than two hours under guarded conditions one night in a prison about 30 miles from Hanoi.

"These men told me they are being humanely treated," Clark said in an interview here Monday. "Those men are not brainwashed. They say they are in good health and they looked like good, strong men."

He said each two men shared a bedroom about 18 feet by 14 feet, with a large window, two cots, one chair and one table "where they kept their personal effects."

Clark said he was skeptical this may have been a "show-piece" camp and "a fraud," but the captured men "said they had been in other camps and they were all about like this one." A North Vietnamese official told him there were "about 25" men in the camp.

The pilots were extremely cautious about their remarks, Clark said, because their meeting was witnessed by officials and guards with tape recorders and cameras "and the men of course feared repercussions."

He said the camp was four long, single-story buildings in a quadrangle with trees. He said he saw a basketball court and a 150-seat auditorium "where they told me they showed the movies."

"The men asked me a lot of questions, mainly about the bombing," Clark said.

"My impression was they were concerned if the bombing looked too bad it would have repercussions for them...they obviously were concerned about getting out...they felt if the bombing was bad it could prolong the war and create more hostilities toward them."

Each man wore a heavy blue and black striped shirt, khaki pants and their hair "appeared shorter than the average gung-ho military type's," Clark reported.

Clark said they held a two-hour "bull session" in a dining room and he passed around a tape recorder and each man spoke a private message to his family, which Clark promised to deliver.

The camp was "at the end of an alley" where a single guard with a rifle stood behind a single bamboo guard rail.

Kissinger to visit Vietnam

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is sending his top national security adviser, Henry A. Kissinger, to South Vietnam Wednesday for "a general review of all aspects of the Vietnam problem, including negotiations in Paris."

The White House cautioned against any speculation that there was a breakthrough in negotiations at Paris. It said the plan to send Kissinger for discussions with top U.S. and South Vietnamese officials has been under consideration "for several weeks" and the President feels it is desirable and appropriate at this time.

Kissinger is scheduled to arrive in Saigon Wednesday night Vietnam time and to stay until Friday. He will meet with President Nguyen Van Thieu, U.S. Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker and the top U.S. military commander Gen. Frederick C. Weyland and other officials.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kissinger will return to report to Nixon before the Republican National Convention gets underway next week. He said Kissinger will probably be back "some time over the weekend."

But he raised speculations over Kissinger's travel plans by declining to say where Kissinger will go when he leaves Saigon Friday evening (local time).

Ziegler ruled out speculation that Kissinger would go back to Paris or to Hanoi, the capital of North Vietnam. He said Kissinger's travel schedule will be announced later.

Kissinger held his 10th announced secret negotiating session with the North Vietnamese in Paris Monday.

Keith, age 13, who will enter the eight grade this year, does his share of the work around the farm. His hobbies include water skiing and motorcycling; he is also active in Pony League baseball program in Hope.

The Cummings' house has an interesting history. Three rooms are actually the original farm home built 115 years ago. It was built of logs with slave labor. Improvements have been made and additional rooms have been added to the original structure to make it a spacious all-electric home with many modern conveniences.

The Farm Family of the Year program is sponsored by Arkansas Power and Light Company and the Arkansas Press Association with the cooperation of the county agricultural agencies. The program serves as a vehicle to recognize outstanding farm families throughout the state.

A committee consisting of from six to 15 members composed of farmers, farm women, newspaper representatives, agricultural agency employees, and business leaders interested in agriculture, determines by vote the family to be named County Farm Family of the Year.

Emphasis is placed on efficiency of production, home improvement, home management, leadership in agricultural and community affairs, as well as the family's long-range program rather than a single year's activities.

The Cummings family are now eligible for district competition, a step toward the coveted State Farm Family of the Year title.

High grocery bills are turning into an issue

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's grocery bill is higher than ever this presidential-election year and the debate over who gets what share of the pie—and the blame—from rising food prices is heating up.

Candidates are farmers, middlemen and retailers, all of whom say they are caught in an economic crunch.

Some typical breakdowns of food prices:

A pound of choice beef cost an average of $1.14 the last time government shoppers checked the nation's food stores. Ranchers took 78 cents of that and the men who slaughter, ship, wrap and sell the meat the other 36 cents.

On lettuce the split was 22 cents a head for retailers and processors, 10 cents for farmers. Of the 25 cents for a loaf of bread, 4 cents went to farmers.

Altogether, marketers get an average 60 cents of every food dollar. The place to study the question of rising food prices, says Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz, "is in the processing and distribution system between the farmer's gate and the consumer's table."

What about farmers? There are more dollars to go around now than ever before, and farmers are getting two cents more of the food dollar than they did a year ago.

Retailers say they're not profiting from the rising food prices. Of criticism to this effect, economist S. Kent Christensen of The National Association of Food Chains said, "We think we're getting the brunt of this and we don't deserve it."

The reason: Retailer-profit margin, expressed as a percentage of sales, has dwindled to what Christensen now estimates at no more than seven-tenths of 1 per cent. Agriculture Department figures confirm the steep decline from a margin of 1.3 per cent in 1964.

Where supermarkets are concerned, the political and economic crunch on food prices came as they were already locked in what Christensen called "one of the most intense competitive struggles that we've seen in years and years."

The struggle was precipitated by the appearance across the nation of regional food chains undercutting the national giants.

England promises refuge to ex-Uganda residents

LONDON (AP) — The British government said it is preparing to offer refuge to 60,000 colored people of Asian extraction being expelled from Uganda. But they may find themselves as unpopular in Britain as they are in their East African homeland.

Labor party leader James Callaghan said he regrets that British passports were ever issued to the Asians in Britain's former African colonies.

Francis Boyd, a columnist for The Guardian, wrote that the welcome for the "lost souls" from Uganda will be "somber at best."

"Where are the houses for these people, the jobs or the school places for their children?" asked a letter writer to The Guardian, B. Dalton.

The Uganda Asians and those in neighboring Kenya and Tanzania retained their British citizenship when their countries became independent. This entitled them to emigrate to Britain at any time. But five years ago Kenya cracked down, to end the Asians' hold on the country's commerce, and the resultant influx into Britain touched off a racial scare among lower class whites fearful of the competition for jobs and cheap housing. The Labor government responded by sharply restricting immigration.

Now President Idi Amin of Uganda has given the holders of foreign passports in his country 90 days to get out. Most of them are of Asian extraction, with an estimated 60,000 holding British passports, and an unknown number of others holding Indian or Pakistani papers. Britain's Conservative government says it will honor the British passports, but so far it has come up with no concrete plans.

Tax-reform tempering is hinted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Blessed with fresh union support, Sen. George McGovern begins a swing through the Midwest today amid indications he may soon temper his controversial tax-reform program. The four-day tour calls for stops in Ohio, Wisconsin and downstate Illinois, and unofficially includes a not-so-coincidental crossing of paths with Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The Democratic presidential nominee got a spirit-boistering sendoff for the second major jaunt of his troubled campaign when 25 AFL-CIO unions announced Monday they had formed a "National Labor Committee" to back his candidacy.

At the same time, McGovern signed up two veteran economists, Charles Schultze and Walter Heller, as he began considering revisions of his tax, welfare and employment proposals.

Heller was chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, and Schultze was LBJ's budget director. Both are generally more conservative than other McGovern economists.

The pair met with the candidate for nearly an hour. Neither would comment specifically on what advice was offered.

Popcorn poll 'popped' by rising costs

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Rising costs have forced the Presidential Popcorn Poll out of existence, despite its 20 years of accuracy.

The poll, begun in 1948 as a promotional gimmick for the Blevins Popcorn Co., was one of the few polls in the country which correctly predicted Harry Truman's victory in that year's presidential election.

Officials of the company said that the cost of obtaining an extensive sampling of the vote has out-weighted the benefits.

Jim Blevins originated the poll when he decorated half his popcorn boxes with donkeys and the other half with elephants. Customers bought their popcorn according to their political affiliations, and Blevins tallied the results of his sales to predict the campaign winner.

MR. AND MRS. TED W. LEGATSKI III

Jones-Legatski vows solemnized Saturday

The marriage of Miss Marlene Rose Jones and Ted W. Legatski II was solemnized Saturday August 5 at 2 at the First Assembly of God Church in Hope.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Jones of Hope. Mr. and Mrs. Ted W. Legatski of Bartlesville, Okla. are the parents of the bridegroom.

The nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Louis Sutton, organist, who also played the wedding march and the accompaniment for the soloist, Miss Teresa Dugger, who sang "A Time for Us".

The Rev. David A. Needham of Big Lake, Minn. uncle of the bride, performed the ceremony before a candelabrum decked with yellow candles and entwined with greenery. The candles were lighted by Miss Doreen Dugger, niece of the bride.

The bride was escorted by her brother, D.O. Dugger of Portage, Ind. She wore a princess-style gown of peau de sole designed with a lace yoke and full-length lace sleeves accented with seed pearls and rhinestones. Medallions of lace were applied down the front of the gown. A chapel train flowed into a full sweep in the back. A finger-tip veil of illusion fell from a coronet embellished with seed pearls. She carried a basket of white daisies.

Miss Debra Dugger served her aunt as maid of honor. Miss Mari Jones, also a niece, was bridesmaid. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Doreen Dugger and Miss Teresa Dugger. They wore floor-length gowns of apricot shantung, fashioned with empire waist, short puffed sleeves, and rosebud trim. Head pieces of apricot net and bows completed their costumes. They carried baskets of yellow and orange daisies.

Ted W. Legatski served his son as best man. Groomsman was M.W. Dugger. Ushers were Jerry Stroud and M.W. Dugger. The bride's mother, Mrs. Jones, wore a two-piece suit of turquoise and white lace-effect double knit with white accessories, and the groom's mother, Mrs. Legatski, wore a two-piece suit of pale green, beige, and white with beige accessories.

A reception followed at the Douglas Building. Those in the house party were Mrs. M.W. Dugger, Mrs. D.O. Dugger, Mrs. D.A. Needham, and Miss Jo Ann Dempsey. Mrs. Don J. Dugger presided at the bride's book.

The three-tiered wedding cake was arranged on a table bearing a hand-made battenberg lace and embroidered table cloth a family heirloom, with an undercloth of apricot shantung, and the groom's table was covered with a matching cloth of shantung.

For travel Mrs. Legatski chose a dress of green double-knit with multi-colored bodice and bolero to match the skirt. At her shoulder she pinned the corsage from her wedding bouquet.

They will be at home after August 17 at Noble, Okla. where she will be employed as an elementary teacher in the Noble Schools, and he will be a law student at the University of Oklahoma.

Church women to present religious drama

The Women of the First Presbyterian Church will produce a religious drama, published by The Bethany Press, of St. Louis, Mo. It will be presented in the Fellowship Hall on Wednesday, August 16 at 7:30 p.m. following the family night supper. The ladies responsible for bringing you this message in drama, "Construction" are, Cast of Characters: Art—Mrs. E.L. Beall, Schmidt—Mrs. Fred Ellis, Lydia—Mrs. Jim McKenzie, Elizabeth—Mrs. Crit Stuart, Terry—Mrs. Lynn Harris, Betsy—Jo Carolyn Bruce, Dolly—Mrs. Jim Gary, Joe—Mrs. Tom Ed Hays, Jr., Hank—Mrs. John Gambs, The Builder—Mrs. John B. Lowe. Assistant Director—Mrs. Cherry Stewart; Pianist—Mrs. R.L. Gosnell.

Blue and white theme is used

On Saturday, August 12 a gift coffee was held for Miss Joy Garner, bride-elect of Don Smallwood, and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Loy Garner, new residents of Hope, at the home of Mrs. M.H. Peebles.

The honoree wore cardinal knit, and she and her mother were each given a daisy corsage by the Hostesses, Mesdames: M.H. Peebles, Lahroy Spates, Linton Crank, Harold Hendrix, Dewey Baber, Carl Greenlee, Ardell Clark, Robert Levis, Aubrey Collier, Charles Grose, Jeff Millican, M.B. Hatch, Eugene Cox, K.G. Russell and Harold Alexander.

The bride's chosen colors, blue and white, were used to decorate. The serving table had a cut-work cloth over blue centered with daisies in a silver epergne. Members of the house party were the Associated Women for Harding.

Coffee and tea were poured from a silver service by Mrs. Baber, and other refreshments were sausage biscuits, cheese biscuits, banana bread, doughnuts, and old-fashioned shortening bread.

Mrs. Grose registered 40 guests in the bride's book. They included Mrs. Joe Walker of Nashville, Tenn., and Mrs. Stephen Garner of Austin, Tex.

JOHNNIE GRAY

Johnnie Gray is guest of B&PW Club

The Hope B & PW Club welcomed Johnnie Gray of the Arkansas Highway Department with a program about the state's highways at the dinner meeting of the club Thursday, August 10 at the Diamond. Using the newest film from the highway department, the guest gave his viewers a picture of construction of roads throughout the state and the scenery along the roadside.

The views taken along I-30 and other roads of Southwest Arkansas were of special interest to the club, and cartoons had been added to the Fouke area showing the famed "monster." The value of good roads is three-fold for tourism, for commerce, and for safety, the group of 29 hears. Each one received a new Arkansas State Highway map.

committee, Verna Ayers, Lena Maryman, Ann Fick, Nelta Roberts and Mary Anita Laseter, arranged to have the speaker and used a watermelon theme for the table decorations. Small melons were placed on the serving tables, and a large one was cut and filled with red glads at the head table. A famous Hope melon was given to the speaker as a gift.

President Charlene Wiggins had charge of the business and welcomed a guest, Ann Thrash. Committee reports included one on the budget by Velora Bright and on membership by LaVeta Mouser. Preliminary plans were begun for the district meeting to be held in Hope October 28-29.

Warning to Bears—or Wolves? HELEN AND SUE:

I'm sure you've seen those leather thongies some people have tied around their wrists with knots in them. I asked my sister what they are for and she said, "To keep bears away." Well, I thought it was cute, so I'm wearing one.

A guy I hang around with acted like there was something dirty about them and said a knotted leather bracelet is a "done-time thing," whatever that means.

Do the knots mean you're a foxy chick or something, or???—KEEPING BEARS AWAY K.B.A.:

Sorry, I pass. I always thought this kind of wristlet was just a leather thing with knots in it. Help, people, does it really keep bears away?—SUE

HELEN AND SUE: After reading your column on "Dear" Not Here With Moderns," (as a salutation for letters), I informed my boss that "Dear Soandso" was no longer "in" according to Sue and her readers.

Here is his reply: "Today my world came crashing down as Helen and Sue agreed 'Dear' is out, based on a possible conflict with the body of the letter, i.e. telling someone to wrap it in barbed wire, drop dead, etc., would not be consistent with the above-mentioned salutation.

"Presupposing that the logic here is correct, would it not be more 'logical' to alter the prefix than delete it, so that the salutation would be more consistent with the body? Examples:

"Precious, Beloved, Cherished, Worthless, Unimportant, Despised, Peaceful, Boring, Skungy, Freakish, Sneaky, etc., etc. Soandso... or Hey You, Hi Guy (Gal), You Big Dummy, Brother Rat..."

"Again, assuming Helen and Sue are correct, we must not stop with merely deleting 'Dear.' We must omit or alter the fifth part (complimentary close) of the letter, using instead of 'Yours truly,' 'Sincerely...cordially...respectfully yours' etc., such closings as: 'Sinfully Yours, Bug Off Buddy, &+!?!?!', Quite Hatefully, Deviously, Doubtfully, Imperviously Yours, Quit Striving for Mediocrity, You're a Great Human Being, etc.

"I protest this would add a new dimension to correspondence, and the world is not ready for such honesty. Therefore, until further notice this office will continue with 'Dear—' and 'Sincerely yours,' let the moderns fall where they may!—Respectfully Attacking Helen's and Sue's Break With Tradition.—YOUR BOSS"—Readingly and Enjoyingly Yours.—RUTHANN HUMOROUS RUTHANN AND HER BOSS: Appreciatingly yours — HELEN AND SUE

Texas All-Stars outhit Rangers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Texas League All-Stars outhit the Texas Rangers 9-8 Monday night, but a three-base error by Alexandria's Mike Ivie opened the doors for all four of the Rangers' runs in a 4-3 game at Alexandria.

The Rangers loaded the bases in the second inning on singles by Rich Billings and Larry Bittner and a walk to Jim Mason off loser Bob Forsch of Arkansas. Ivie had a chance for a doubleplay when Vic Harris hit a bouncer, but the slugging first baseman threw wide to second base, and the ball rolled deep into left field, allowing all three runners to score. Elliott Maddox, who along with Bittner and Billings had two hits for the Rangers, singled home Harris later in the inning.

'Johnny the Sweeper' delights Braves fans with his antics

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

Johnny Bench swept the bases just for the hell of it, then swept around the bases for real.

The Atlanta Braves, who have joined the list of baseball clubs adding a bit of diversion to the game—mainly a shapely young lady who dusts off the bases midway in the game—found they had a new sweeper prior to their Monday night game with Cincinnati.

Before the regularly scheduled contest against the Reds, the Braves engaged in another growing ritual, a softball game against their wives. And halfway through the two-inning exhibition, out of the dugout, broom in hand, came ...

"Johnny the Sweeper!"

His antics delighted the 15,318 Braves fans, who then watched the feminine mystique take its toll in an 8-0 victory over the Atlanta husbands.

But the fans were less than thrilled when the "real" game got under way. Bench, exploding out of a slump that had provided him with just two hits in 27 at-bats, manhandled the Braves by driving in five runs with a single, a double and his 26th home run, leading Cincinnati to a 12-2 romp.

In the only other National League game, Houston defeated San Francisco 7-5. In the night's two American League games, Oakland beat Baltimore 5-2 and Kansas City silenced the New York Yankees 3-0.

The Reds' slugger took the place of the Braves' "Susie the Sweeper," who occasionally plants a kiss on the cheek of a player or umpire—or swats one with the broom.

He billed himself as "Bench the Basepath Beauty"—and he was, indeed, that, with his Cincinnati uniform shirt barely covering the white "hot pants" he wore for the occasion.

"I don't know too many guys of his stature who'd do it," said Reds Manager Sparky Anderson, "but I tell you, when he started over toward first base and I saw those wives standing over there on the sidelines I said to myself: 'Oh, boy! Please don't grab one of them!'"

Bench didn't. He went one better. After finishing his housecleaning tour of the bases, he planted his kiss on the cheek of the home plate umpire—heavyweight boxer Jerry Quarry.

He kissed off the Braves pretty quickly with his two-run homer in the first inning, then singled to drive in the last of four Reds runs in the sixth and doubled to drive in two more in capping a four-run seventh. "I swept the cobwebs off or something," he said of the end of the slump.

Roger Metzger and Cesar Ceno drove in two runs apiece for the Astros, who remained 5½ games back of the front-running Reds in the NL East. But it was Jim Wynn who had the big RBI of the night, a tie-breaking single in a four-run seventh that propelled Houston past the Giants.

In the nationally televised battle of the American League's divisional leaders, Oakland widened its lead in the West to 1½ games over idle Chicago while the Orioles' margin over Detroit in the East was trimmed to one game.

The Yanks, with a golden opportunity to move into second place in the AL East and cut the Orioles' lead to half a game, fell instead into third and remained 1½ games off the pace.

three now that are doing darn good."

Corbett readily admits a league of blind bowlers is a "tough proposition cause it's never been done."

"It took the wheelchair leagues about 10 years to get organized," he said. "I figure it will take us at least that long."

"Bowling has helped me more than anything. When I started I was aware that for awhile I would be a spectacle, people saying, 'look at the blind man bowling,' but I didn't care. "After I threw that first ball I knew I could do it and there was something I liked."

Offensive line No. 1 problem

HOUSTON (AP) — Bill Peterson is a pleasant enough fellow until he loses at something—whether it be cards or football—and then he gets downright nasty.

That being the case, Peterson could be in the wrong position in 1972 as the rookie head coach of the Houston Oilers.

"I don't like to lose," the personable Peterson said. "I lost one of my best friends the other night in a card game. He beat me and I got mad. I went to him the next morning and apologized but I can't stand to be beaten. It's a terrible thing to be that way."

But unless the Oilers can piece together an offensive line decimated by poor trades last year and injuries this year, and bolster a sagging running attack, Peterson may have to weather through some losing heads.

The offensive line is the Oilers' No. 1 problem. It was further weakened as training camp started when guard Bob Young refused to report in a contract squabble, tackle Gene Ferguson walked out of camp, asking to be traded, and the other starting tackle, Sam Walton, walked out, too. Then Elbert Drungo, shifted from starting guard to tackle, was knocked out for the season by a training camp knee injury that required surgery.

That left offensive line coach Joe Madro shaking his head with wonder.

"A starting line?" Madro repeats, almost laughing. "I truthfully can't say. "We have one starter from last year in the lineup.

John Smith, the world 440-yard record holder, was No. 2 in the trials with a fast time of 44.3 seconds.

The man he didn't catch at Eugene, (Ore.), was former UCLA teammate Wayne Collett. Collett came through with a swift 44.1 to win the trials and jump into the No. 3 spot on the all-time list. The time is the fastest ever run at sea level.

"They were known as the farm team for the New York Yankees," said Sain. "They traded off Roger Maris, Ralph Terry and Hector Lopez to the Yankees. I figured they didn't want to win, so I left."

Johnny Sain has winning streak

CHICAGO (AP) — Johnny Sain, the Chicago White Sox pitching coach, has one leg on his own personal triple crown.

Wherever Sain has been, he usually has had a 20-game winner, his team has won a championship and his manager has been manager of the year.

In this year of 1972, Sain has accomplished the fact that Wilbur Wood has won 20 games. Now he wants the Sox to win the pennant and Chuck Tanner be named the manager of the year.

You have to go back with Sain. In the late 1950's he was the pitching coach of the Kansas City A's.

"They were known as the farm team for the New York Yankees," said Sain. "They traded off Roger Maris, Ralph Terry and Hector Lopez to the Yankees. I figured they didn't want to win, so I left."

Sain went to the New York Yankees and Whitey Ford won 25 games, the first time he had reached the 20-game plateau in his career.

The Yankees, under Ralph Houk, also won flags in 1962 and 1963. Houk won manager of the year laurels.

Sain went from the Yankees to the Minnesota Twins. The Twins won the pennant in 1965 as Jim (Mudcat) Grant recorded 20 triumphs. The next year Jim Kaat was a 20-game winner.

Then it was to Detroit. In 1967 Earl Wilson won 20 games for the Tigers. The following year Denny McLain won 31 games and McLain again won 20 games in 1969.

Despite his success, Sain became a target of criticism.

"They said I built a wall between my pitchers and the rest of the ball club," said Sain. "It's not true. Pitchers need hitters to win ball games."

Sain is a teacher of no running by his pitchers and this has become a factor in his career.

"I'm not interested in pitchers running," says Sain. "All I want to know is can you get the next guy out. If they are in condition and can work, that will keep them in shape. Running is not the answer. Get them out, that's what counts."

Baseball Tips

5—Catching

(Fifth of 10 Parts.)

As catcher you are the defensive captain. You alone have all the playing field in front of you, putting you in a position to call the shots.

Work out your signal for the pick-off play with each of the infielders. Don't make the signals complicated. Some examples: 1. Bare hand on knee means pick-off at first base. 2. Picking up dirt means pick-off play at second. 3. Glove hand to knee, pick-off at third base. Also, you should have a return sign from the infielder so you're sure he knows. Otherwise you're likely to throw away the ball.

If no man is on base, the catcher should always get down the line to back up first base on a ball hit to the infield. He should run to a spot where he thinks the ball would go if overthrown.

Keep the signals to your pitcher simple. Agree before the game on signals to use.

America's short-distance runners dominate Olympics

MUNICH (AP) — America's shorter-distance runners, for years dominant in Olympic Games competition, again appear powerful but the names are not at all the same as in the past.

When the sprinters go to their marks, the U.S. names will include Eddie Hart, Larry Black, Chuck Smith, Rey Robinson and Larry Burton. Even in the 400-meter dash, normally a U.S.-dominated event, the names are not household words.

Still, America figures to do well, despite the youth of the team. (In the three shortest races, the oldest runner is 25 and the average age is 21.8 years.)

Hart, the oft-injured former University of California NCAA champ, took 1972 cautiously and wound up making the U.S. team with a world-record-tying 9.9 in the 100 meters. He was joined on the team and in the record books by the 20-year-old Robinson, a virtual unknown until mid-June.

The third sprinter, husky Robert Taylor, came along quickly at the end of the season, making the team over such better-known dashmen as Mel Pender, Ivory Crockett, Marshall Dill, Willie Cockard, Willie McGee and Gerald Tinker.

For the first time in years, the United States is in jeopardy in the 100 since Russia's Valeriy Borzov, a powerful, picture book sprinter from the Ukraine, is unbeaten in the last two years.

However, the 200 meters is the biggest question mark.

Smith is in his fourth year of sprinting, Burton his first and Black his fourth. Smith was the surprise winner of the National AAU title and was first in the U.S. trials in 20.4. Burton, with a 20.3 time to his credit for 220 yards, shocked the experts by making the team.

And Black ran two 20.0 times this year, showing a powerful kick.

OAKLAND (AP) — The Baltimore Colts gave pro football its first taste of the Wishbone Offense, all the rage on college gridirons, when nothing else seemed to work against the Oakland Raiders.

But the Raiders broke the Wishbone and won Monday night's National Football League preseason game 16-0.

George Blanda, who played college football when the Single Wing was still big on campus, kicked field goals of 24, 30 and 23 yards. He also added the extra point after Kenny Stabler's 8-yard touchdown pass to Fred Biletnikoff in the third period.

"It looks like George is kicking as good as ever. You could see that tonight," said Raiders Coach John Madden.

Jack Mildren, who mastered the Wishbone as Oklahoma's quarterback, made it go 48 yards in the fourth quarter against Oakland.

Mildren rushed for more than 1,000 yards last year, but pitched out on every running play Monday night. He completed a 39-yard pass to former college teammate Willie Franklin but then gave up an interception which ended the drive and the night's Wishbone experiment.

Baltimore's No. 1 quarterback, Johnny Unitas, passed for 126 yards before leaving the game at halftime. But three field goal attempts by Jim O'Brien in the first half failed.

Stabler completed 8 of 12 tosses for 109 yards after relieving starter Daryle Lamonica.

In other NFL developments Monday, Dallas Coach Tom Landry moved backfield coach Dan Reeves into the backup quarterback spot behind Craig Morton and switched Sid Gilman from the research and development job into Reeves' post.

The shakeup followed a shoulder separation suffered by No. 1 quarterback, Roger Staubach, expected to be sidelined eight to 12 weeks.

Royal takes a look at Texas Longhorns

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Movie producer Martin Jurov was talking shop, ex-quarterback James Street waited for some advice and a secretary had a long list of callbacks—a normal hour hour for Texas' busy football coach Darrell Royal.

And further indication that a successful bigtime college football coach has lots more to do than watch game films. That, too, however, was on the afternoon schedule.

"I think," said Royal, "we are a little better" than the 6-4 seasons of 1965-67, the worst records of Royal's 15 years at Texas.

The Longhorns have won four consecutive Southwest Conference titles, but this year, says Royal, "Arkansas is the class of the league. They've got it."

Royal also feels the talent gap between Texas—which romped to 30 straight victories in 1968-70 and was 8-3 last season—and the rest of the South-west Conference has closed sharply.

He figures his offensive line "probably" will be better than last season, with all-America tackle Jerry Sisemore, all-SWC guard Don Crosslin, guard Travis Roach and tackle Bill Wyman adding a year's experience.

The defense is flavored with eight veterans and potentially outstanding newcomers in tackle Doug English and linebacker Sherman Lee.

The offensive backfield, however, appears several cuts below those that set rushing records in 1968-70, and last year when halfback Jim Bertelsen ripped off 879 yards.

Senior quarterback Alan Lowry, a defensive halfback for two years, has never guided the Wishbone-T offense in a varsity game; fullback Dennis Ladd has had knee problems; halfback Don Burriak was hurt half of last season; and halfback Tom Landry ran seven times for 34 yards against Arkansas. "We're going to have to fight for everything we get," said Royal. "We're not going to be able to get much on sheer ability."

Fifth in a series: Recruiting is the name of the game

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — When Jim Carlen arrived on the Texas Tech campus two years ago, he brought a new sense of excitement and expectation to Southwest Conference football circles.

He was poised, forthright and evangelistic. Indeed, some felt too much so.

But in his first year the Red Raiders romped to an 8-3 season and into the Sun Bowl. The Associated Press named him Southwest Conference Coach of the Year.

Last season was less glamorous and not without its stormy moments, particularly when Carlen criticized the booster club after one of his players was booed.

But more importantly, Carlen's recruiting program, while in its infancy here, has brought change. The accent is on personal contact.

"I think we've made people get out more," Carlen said in an interview in his office overlooking the artificial turf of Tech's Jones Stadium.

"So I think recruiting in Texas has changed since I've been here. There's nine (SWC) coaches and I'm the fifth oldest, and I've been here two years.

"You got the Tohills (TCU), the Teaffs (Baylor), the Belkards (Texas A&M) and the Conovers (Rice), that's four

City problems in China

PEKING (AP) — Governing a large city in China is not looked upon as a major problem as it is in the United States — they simply break the city down into a number of self-governing units.

It will be news, too, to Mayors Daley and Lindsay that Nanking doesn't consider garbage collection difficult. Surrounding farmers come and collect it for their pigs. Other cities have more conventional means.

A self-governing district here in West Peking demonstrates how the system works. It comprises 53,000 people. It has six factories and 14,300 residences. Housing is mostly Chinese-style, around courtyards, with one or two rooms occupied by each family. Cooking is done outside for the most part, on simple stoves. Apartment houses have other facilities.

Like all political units since the Cultural Revolution in China, this district is governed by a revolutionary committee composed of professional administrators, worker representatives and army representatives. The committee works full time and is paid, but 25 sub-committees are not paid. The members work in factories or do other tasks.

The city's central administration furnishes police, water, lights and gas but the rest is left to the district revolutionary committee. It maintains the services.

The district has a central pool of plumbers, electricians, carpenters, etc., on call for major home emergencies. Minor repairs are expected to be taken care of by the householder himself in keeping with China's policy of "making do"—don't ask the government to do something you can do yourself.

All able-bodied members of a family work except for maternity leave.

Children are left in day-care centers run by a committee of teachers and wives. Because this work is considered part-time the wives sew and embroider tablecloths, napkins or baby clothes for sale to the state. They are paid by the piece.

The committee and district administer the health program. This includes a hospital, seven outpatient clinics staffed by doctors and nurses, many "barefoot doctor" clinics and below them the health workers who see that vaccines are administered and that education in diseases is carried on.

In the Chinese political structure — city or country — the theory is to break down administration into the smallest unit feasible, govern it by a revolutionary committee whose members are known to everyone, and make it as self-sufficient as possible. The committees are elected for three years by "discussion" — a majority vote eventually.

Although 53,000 people live in this unit, it is not a large area. Housing is very tight — one family has nine people and four generations in a room 40 by 10 with a partition.

With 25 subcommittees, government is a very personal matter in this small area with two main streets and 132 lanes.

In 1872 Yellowstone National Park became a national park and the world's first big public wildlife refuge.

IN THE PROBATE COURT OF HEMPSTEAD COUNTY, ARKANSAS IN THE MATTER OF THE ESTATE OF LUDIE L. McDONALD, DECEASED, EMMETT McDONALD, EXECUTOR

No. 2489

To all persons interested in the Estate of Ludie L. McDonald, Deceased:

You are hereby notified that pursuant to the Decree of the Hempstead County Probate Court made and entered on July 28, 1972, Emmett McDonald as Executor of the above estate has filed in this Court a petition to admit to probate as a codicil to the will of Ludie L. McDonald an instrument of writing dated January 17, 1967, purporting to be wholly in the handwriting of Ludie L. McDonald, and that said petition will be heard at 10:00 o'clock, A. M., on Friday, September 1, 1972, in the Court Room of the Hempstead County Courthouse in the City of Hope, Hempstead County, Arkansas, and that the construction of the original will and this codicil, if admitted to probate, has been continued by said Court and will be heard by the Court at the same time.

You are further notified that Emmett McDonald as Executor of the Estate of Ludie L. McDonald, Deceased, has filed his petition in said Court asking for authority to sell the lands and personal property belonging to said estate at public sale to the highest and best bidder or bidders for cash, and by order of said Court made and entered herein on the 11th day of August, 1972, said petition will be heard by said Court at 10:00 o'clock, A. M., on Friday, September 1, 1972, in the Court Room of the Hempstead County Courthouse in the City of Hope, Hempstead County, Arkansas.

IN TESTIMONY WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of said Court on this 11th day of August, 1972.

One old female cat in the house can henpick a man more than a dozen nagging wives. Since I've been a widower, I find I spend much more time trying to find a canned food that Lady Dottie, our cat, will eat than I ever spent searching for a restaurant that would please my wife.

An old-timer is a guy who remembers when office wives used to prey on innocent new secretaries. Today it's the office wolf who needs a body-guard.

Four out of five men get as a farewell gift at retirement a gold watch, a traveling case, a fishing rod or a typewriter. There is no other occasion in American life in which so little imagination or ingenuity is shown. It would be far more fitting if they were presented with something more appropriate—such as a lifetime pass to the burlesque house, a 10-speed wheelchair, or enough money to run away from home.

I wrote with some horror recently of a Manhattan store that charges $3.39 a pound for veal cutlets. A reader now tells me that he knows of a place where they charge $3.79. I told him to keep it a secret—and maybe they'll go out of business.

Whatever happened to films that have happy endings? Most of them now seem to try to be so true-to-life they wind up worse than life. Your trip to the movies is incomplete unless you bring along a crying towel.

Levant: Wit, eccentric, author, host dies at 65

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (AP) — Oscar Levant, the slouching figure in the dark baggy suit, would play a few flawless measures of George Gershwin's piano concerto in F. Then he might insult his audience, another performer or the television sponsor. "I'll show you how unbreakable it is!" he shouted once as he smashed the sponsor's "unbreakable" radio against a wall.

That was Oscar Levant, pianist, wit, composer, author, eccentric, actor and television host who is dead at 65.

Levant had been professionally inactive for nearly a decade when he died in his sleep Monday afternoon. Authorities said the apparently died of natural causes and ordered an autopsy. In recent years he complained of edema, arthritis, insomnia and a host of other ailments.

Though he became famous first as the soloist in countless performances of "Rhapsody in Blue," composed by his best friend George Gershwin, Levant left his mark as an eccentric. Demonstrating simultaneously his wit, his egotism, his illness and his talent, he once said, "There is a thin line between genius and insanity. I have erased that line."

The son of a Pittsburgh jeweler, Levant began making a living as a pianist when he was 15. He studied under the atonalist composer Arnold Schoenberg at one time and composed some seldom performed serious music. Later he had to his credit the hit song, "Lady, Play Your Mandolin" and the Academy Award winning tune "Until Today" from the late '30s film "Nothing Sacred."

As an expert in music and many other things, Levant was a panelist for 10 years on the "Information Please" radio program.

He said he thrived on sleeping pills and other drugs but didn't touch liquor. "I don't like it," he joked. "It makes me feel good."

His hypochondria made up a large part of his three books, "Memories of an Amnesiac," "A Smattering of Ignorance" and "The Unimportance of Being Oscar."

As an actor he appeared in several movies, once in a film biography of Gershwin as a

Park opened for protestors

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Helmeted policemen forced about 100 campers to leave Flamingo Park early today, eight hours after the City Council voted to allow demonstrators here for the Republican National Convention to use the shaded campsite.

Police Chief Rocky Pomerance, who led the nonviolent operation involving 40 officers, said the city needed more time to prepare the 36-acre park for the thousands of protesters expected for the convention, which opens Monday.

Police first were greeted by epithets and shouts of "Pig," but the campers, most of them followers of the Zippie movement, slowly cleared the fenced park after officers marched shoulder-to-shoulder toward the only available exit.

The protesters, their number thinning to between 50 to 75, then roamed the streets of Miami Beach's senior citizen community. Zippie leaders tried to organize a march on City Hall, but squad cars put off the march and herded the demonstrators toward a church which had offered to house convention nondelegates.

No arrests were reported.

The protesters were finally directed to Miami Beach Community Church several blocks from Flamingo Park about 3 a.m., where some 40 protesters already were bedding down for the night.

City Council voted 4 to 3 Monday to open the park for non-delegates. About 3,000 demonstrators used it as a campsite during last month's Democratic convention.

The council did not specify when protesters could set up campsites the park, but Pomerance told Zippie leaders early today he thought the city could arrange for necessary sanitary, medical and other facilities by Thursday.

About 100 people, most of them Zippies, were there Monday night when police informed them the park was closed and everyone had to leave. Most of the people ignored the instruction.

Dress code is illegal, judge says

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A majority of the dress code for students at Perryville Junior and Senior High School is unconstitutional, U. S. District Court Judge G. Thomas Eisele ruled Monday.

If school officials decided to enforce the few valid portions of the code or adopt a new code, Eisele said, students could not be disciplined for violating the code until given a chance to defend themselves.

Eisele ruled last year that a regulation prohibiting mustaches, sideburns, beards and long hair in the Perryville schools was unconstitutional.

The challenged rules dealing with girls' clothes said "dresses, skirts and blouses, or pantsuits may be worn. No divided skirts or dresses; no jeans or shorts may be worn."

Mitchell: Clark is 'naive'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former U.S. Atty. Gen. John Mitchell delivered another blast at Ramsey Clark today, calling him "a naive American" who was "unwittingly duped into playing Hanoi's wretched game."

Clark, who was attorney general in the administration of President Johnson, returned from a two-week visit to North Vietnam with a plea to end the U.S. bombing.

"We are bombing the hell out of that little country and it has got to stop," Clark said at a news conference in San Francisco Monday. "There is no possible moral justification for it."

He also said he thought the North Vietnamese had become "disgusted" at continued emphasis by Americans on when U.S. prisoners would be released.

Mitchell, in a statement released by the Committee for the Re-election of the President, said "Mr. Clark's behavior while within the frontiers of a country waging war against an ally and the armed forces of the United States was inexcusable."

He called on Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic candidate for president, "to face up to this issue." McGovern, who has described Clark as being of Cabinet caliber, said Sunday that Clark is not the issue—the bombing is.

Mitchell was attorney general under President Nixon and recently resigned as the President's campaign manager.

Clark said he saw hospitals, schools and churches that had been bombed, as well as several dike installations that had been damaged, but did not witness any actual bombings.

Policeman's firing overturned by CSC

NORTH LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The firing of Patrolman Monte E. Montgomery was overturned early today by the North Little Rock Civil Service Commission.

But the commission suspended Montgomery for 30 days without pay for "insubordination and disrespect to his superior officers." Montgomery, 29, said he would appeal the ruling to Circuit Court.

He said the decision was the only one the commission could make "under the circumstances."

"I'm pleased with their decision," he said. "I consider it a victory in a sense—that I was reinstated."

The commission deliberated for about an hour before issuing its ruling at 12:36 a.m. at the end of a lengthy hearing.

Police Chief Reo Bowman had dismissed Montgomery July 28, charging the patrolman with leaving his assigned area, filing a false offense report, disobeying a superior officer and defacing a departmental record.

In his appeal to the commission, Montgomery said the real reason for his dismissal was his testimony last autumn before a U.S. grand jury that was investigating possible payoffs to North Little Rock public officials.

According to the charges listed against Montgomery, the policeman submitted a false offense report in which he alleged that four officers assaulted him, threatened him with suspension and otherwise verbally abused him on July 25. Montgomery testified Monday night that the officers — Capt. W.D. Younts, Capt. Robert L.

Stanton, Lt. Bobby West and Sgt. Walter Miles — had assaulted him in a legal if not a literal sense, although he said he had never meant to imply that he was actually beaten.

The fact that you have made a limit bid does not mean that you won't find another call if partner jumps to game, provided that his jump to game is made in some new suit.

North's one no-trump response is correct. He only has eight high-card points and definitely should not respond two hearts. Had South jumped to three no-trump or four spades North would have passed quickly but South jumped to four hearts and North's hand suddenly became tremendous.

He decided to use Blackwood on the way to a slam and when South jumped to six clubs, North went into a real huddle.

Theoretically, the six-club call showed no aces and a valuable void suit but clearly South would not have jumped to six with no aces. After all, North had limited his high card holding when he responded one no-trump.

What could the bid mean? Could South hold a club suit? Impossible! Then what did he hold? North finally worked it out and bid the heart grand slam.

Just for the fun of it, take a look at the West hand. He had made a trap pass over the one spade opening; a surprised pass over the four heart rebid and a really brilliant pass over the final contract of seven hearts. He paid off to the grand slam, but he saved the extra points a double would have cost him.

In general: Don't overtax your mental capabilities by zeroing-in on petty annoyances. Though they may seem to be, problems are never really mountains. Words to live by today: PERSPECTIVE and POISED.

ASTRO*GRAPH divides your horoscope into 6 sections. Use the letters and numbers under your sign. Numbers describe today's influences. Letters give the section. Circled number evaluates your hidden aspects.

'Lie' tests being used on employes

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Don't be surprised if the next time you're looking for a job, your prospective employer asks you to take a lie detector test.

Experts in the field say more companies are using such tests. George Danish of the San Antonio Police Department said many firms have large polygraph—lie detector—staffs of their own.

Most businesses, however, rely on the services of the approximately 280 licensed examiners in Texas.

One of the state's largest is Truth Verification Inc., a subsidiary of Smith Protection Services.

Jim Hamilton, acting chief examiner for the agency, said most of his clients are businesses with employees heavily involved in money and merchandising. "Grocery stores, service stations, nightclubs and restaurants come to us a lot," he said.

Hamilton recommends use of the polygraph to businesses to control loss—either outright theft or time wasted by hiring the wrong man for the job.

Hamilton said a polygraph examination normally costs the business less than $20, compared to $40 or $50 for a conventional investigation.

The typical polygraph test takes about 45 minutes to administer, Hamilton said. Most of that time is spent establishing a rapport with the subject and calming his fears of the machine. Only two or three minutes of actual attachment to the machine's sensing devices are required.

During the test, the subject is fitted with an elastic waistband, an arm wrap and tiny metal sensors on his hands to test his breathing pattern, heartbeat and sweat reaction.

The examiner runs through a series of questions concerning the subject's health, education, financial condition and medication usage.

"Most people admit to petty theft," Hamilton said. Also, most young applicants admit to having used marijuana.

Hamilton said the most damaging outcome of the polygraph test is the admission of an arrest record. Even if the arrest did not result in a conviction, he said, an employer frequently holds it against the applicant.

Some consider the tests an invasion of privacy.

The Texas Civil Liberties Union is "opposed on all levels (to the test) as a condition of employment," said Hank Albach, president of the Dallas chapter. He said the TCLU has received numerous complaints concerning polygraph usage but has yet to initiate legal action.

Hamilton said examiners are aware of the need to keep the information gained from the tests confidential. "We are extremely limited on who we give our reports to," Hamilton said. How reliable are the tests?

"In most cases," Hamilton said, "if conditions are under the proper controls and the examiner is qualified, the possibility of telling if the subject is telling the truth is 92 per cent."

"If he's lying, his chances are increased a little bit, but he'll get caught between 80 and 92 per cent of the time."

The price of progress

The traffic flow on South Main St. has been hampered by heavy machinery doing preparation work for the widening of the highway (Highway 29) to four-lane. Miniature traffic jams occur during peak rush hours, and dust from the construction is a major problem for motorists and residents along the thoroughfare.

China: A view from the inside

By WES GALLAGHER

PEKING (AP) — China's army has been placed firmly into the power structure of the government in a position unique in the world today.

A visit to the headquarters of the 196th Division demonstrates this dual civilian-military role. Its members sit in the revolutionary committees from the top of government to the commune and district level as part of a governing triumvirate of army, administrators and rank and file.

The 196th engages in farming, manufacturing, helping nearby farmers with the harvest and helping govern by having representatives on nearby committees which rule communes, districts and counties.

The People's Liberation Army also is probably much larger than some of the Western estimates of 2.9 million. The Chinese say Soviet Russia has massed a million soldiers on China's northern border, and it is unlikely that China has fewer men facing them. But in addition, in every city, village and rural area, you see army members in uniform or sometimes in peasant clothes helping with the harvest. Figures, of course, are not available.

The 196th Division is deep in farming country. Its barracks are surrounded by crops which belong to the division. Like every unit in the country, the division strives to be self-sufficient. A small factory produces medicine for the division's own use and that of nearby areas. Wives of soldiers and a few men run the factory.

The Chinese army is all volunteer and officials say they have far more than enough to choose from — a military career is a coveted one.

The army's role in civilian government was defined by Mao Tse-tung in his famous "May 7" directive when student excesses during the Cultural Revolution seemed to be getting out of hand.

The directive started off: "The People's Liberation Army should be a great school. In this school, our army should study politics and military affairs, raise its education level, and also engage in agriculture and side occupations and run small or medium-size factories to make products for its own needs or for exchange with the state for equal values. Our army should also do mass work and participate in the socialist education movement in the factories and the villages."

The last sentence embedded the army in the political structure at every level in the country.

The vice commander of the 196th Division, Keng Yu-chi, in showing how the division participated in many civilian activities, said of course the main task of the division was to prepare to defend China militarily and to liberate Taiwan.

Keng is 42 and has been with this division a number of years. He said military training takes up eight or nine months a year and helping civilians in production takes two or three months. This is in addition to the farms the division runs itself and the committees it sits on.

Living conditions in the barracks are rugged by Western standards. Officially, rank has been done away with. Leaders are referred to as platoon "commanders," etc., but orders are still given and the job gets done.

A small playroom features the division's history in two books. They include the division's service in the Korean War.

The division has its own shoe repair shop, its own tailor shop where soldiers' uniforms are mended. A great effort is made to meet all the division's needs within itself.

The cost of maintaining the division must be a fraction of what it would be in the west.

In the gunroom, it is proudly pointed out, every gun from the smallest rifle to machine gun has the same caliber bullets.

A show for visitors demonstrates accuracy in small-arms fire, which was excellent, bazooka fire and mine explosions.

The stress in plays, practice, and propaganda is always on guerrilla warfare. It is repeated again and again.

A satire put on by the division's men and women soldiers showed its soldiers as guerrillas in a village dealing with a slapstick Japanese invading force.

Despite such broad slapstick you are left with the impression that any invader of China would not find massed armies but a force spread among China's millions, living off the land and attacking in small, fast-disappearing units again and again. This apparently is a heritage of the success of Communists Long March and rise to power against the Nationalist forces of Chiang Kai-shek.

Fouke Monster movie subject

"The Legend of Boggy Creek," an action documentary of an alleged "monster" who terrorizes the area around Fouke, will have its world premiere in Texarkana Thursday, Aug. 17, prior to national distribution.

Although it was inspired by the alleged "Fouke Monster," the 90-minute, feature length film is not a monster movie, according to Charles B. Pierce, director and producer.

It is a story of people and what effect an alleged monster has on their lives.

Over the past decade the "huge, hairy monster" has periodically terrorized the population of Fouke (population 350), a farming community in Southwest Arkansas near Texarkana.

Few persons have ever seen the creature, but those who have say it is about seven feet tall, weighs an estimated 400 pounds, smells like a pig pen and is able to walk and run unbelievably fast on two legs. The "monster" reportedly emits terrifying, earth-shaking cries and its eyes shine bright red in the glare of lights. Several who did report seeing the creature required shock treatments.

Attempts to track the monster have been thwarted because of its elusive habits and its environment—the jungle-like forest swampland of the Sulphur River bottoms. Dogs are terrified and refuse to trail the monster. Traps and other capture schemes have failed.

Pierce and a screenwriter prowled the bottom land around Fouke with expert trackers; at times they were accompanied by a University of Arkansas mammalogist. They interviewed Fouke area residents who had seen or heard the creature, creating a composite story that emerged as "The Legend of Boggy Creek."

The film neither supports or refutes the "Monster" theory. That is a decision viewers of the movie will have to make for themselves.

Filed in color, wide screen techniscope, the stunning photography of the Sulphur River bottom country has already gained rave notices from film industry professionals. According to these same professionals, the film should be considered a strong contender for an Academy Award in the action documentary category.

"The Legend of Boggy Creek," fact or fiction? Perhaps no one will ever know. But the story on film is outstanding family entertainment, rated "G" for general audiences.

Earl E. Smith wrote the screenplay and story.

Business Mirror

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It is now one full year since President Nixon, faced with persistent inflation, joblessness and foreign payments deficits, devalued the dollar and imposed controls on the economy.

The President's action was a stunning defeat for the philosophy of laissez-faire.

The fact was that the American people were disturbed by theories that seemed not to work, by promises of economic turnarounds that led straight ahead—and down. Surveys showed public confidence waning.

The American economy was in trouble, domestically and internationally.

Practical measures, no matter how abhorrent to basic beliefs, seemed called for.

Have the results been worthwhile? Millions of words will be written in an attempt to demonstrate or deny that this is the case and, to a point, some evidence can be offered to suit either viewpoint. The rate of inflation has dropped to about 3.5 per cent, but that still is enough to cut the dollar in half in 20 years. Joblessness has decreased from near 6 per cent, but 5.5 per cent of the labor force is still unemployed.

Still, the domestic economy is expanding, corporations are making money, people are building their savings and a housing boom continues. The government still hasn't learned how to cut spending, and the continued budget deficits and trade imbalances conceivably could lead to a further dollar devaluation even before the word monetary system is rebuilt.

In broad summary, the evidence seems to indicate that the emergency decisions of a year ago have resulted in immediate practical gains for the administration.

The final evaluation of those moves, however, remains to be measured by both future events and future historians. The most important measurement will be of the long-term changes in the American way of life.

Will emergency regulations enacted under the great pressure of immediate problems become a permanent part of the American outlook, accepted as the new ethic, woven into the philosophy, enacted into laws? Time will tell.

Meanwhile, there is one effect that surprises almost everyone who learned their textbook economics more than a dozen years ago. Business is thriving in a regulated economy. Many businessmen support controls. Their mood is bullish.

Contrast their outlook with that of a year ago and you have one of the most curious results of the new economic program. Businessmen, economists, statisticians are all looking up.

Ironically, the emergency measures of Aug. 15, 1971, enacted with considerable distaste, are winning respect from some unlikely directions. Conceivably, they could become a permanent part of the new economics.

Man commutes from NY to LA on job

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Willie True is not the everyday commuter you find in suburbia these days.

He and his wife Opal live in Los Angeles. But he works in New York.

His job as a weather forecaster for Trans World Airlines is highly specialized. So when TWA moved its weather bureau from Los Angeles, True had to move.

But they had paid for their home in Baldwin Hills here and they didn't want to give it up. So True commuted to Kansas City for eight years. For the past two years he has commuted to New York.

He lives in an apartment in New York for two weeks at a time before he gets time off to see his wife.

Otherwise he sits in his New York apartment and reads. "We haven't had a decent home life for 10 years," said the 60-year-old True. "I have four years before retirement. I only hope I can stand the frustration."

"This isn't exactly what I had in mind when we were married," said his wife. "But we've accepted."

And there are some bright spots.

"There's always something to talk about when we're together," said Mrs. True. "And it's always a special occasion."

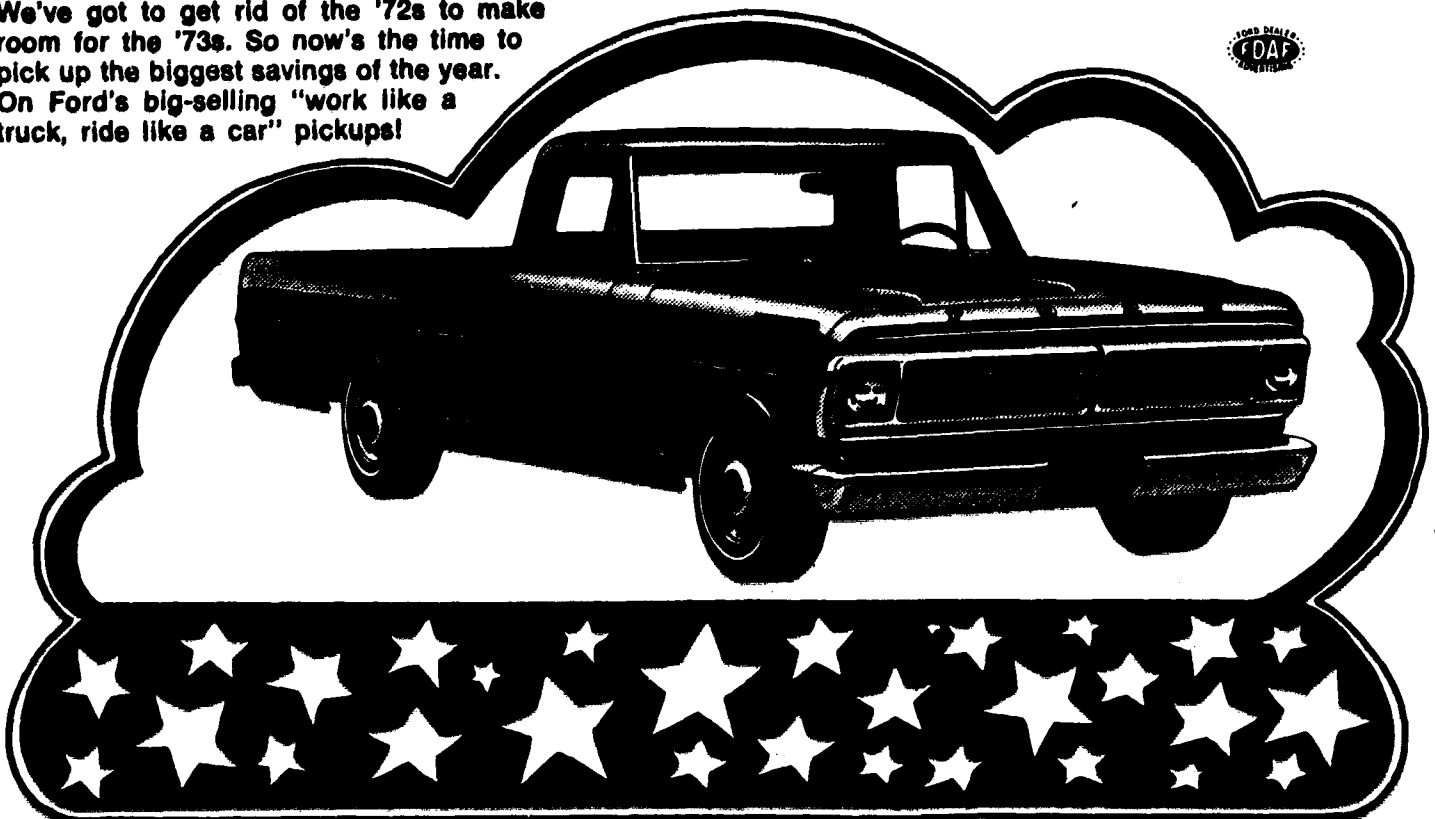

The Trues manage because they have no children and they both have lifetime flight passes. Certain employees and their wives are entitled to such passes.

True doesn't recommend this type of marriage. But if it's unavoidable, the only way to make it work, he says, is to "show a lot of understanding, and travel light."
